For items 17-19

You can't always choose your room, but you can choose the things inside it. Because of that, your bedroom says a lot about your personality.

And we're not only talking about your favorite hobbies or your taste in music and books. Of course, a guitar behind the door or sci-fi stories in your bookcase give people information about you, but a careful look at your bedroom can teach them a lot more than that. The colors in your room, for example, are very interesting. Does your room have bright colors on the walls, curtains, a rug or a comforter? Then you probably love trying new things. People with pale walls are often friendly and talkative, but people with dark walls don't like meeting new people. Black and white is a popular choice for people with strong opinions.

The pictures on your walls say a lot, too. Generous people like decorating their rooms with photos of their friends and family, but if your own face is in every picture or you have more than one mirror, watch out! This shows that you are probably a little selfish. So, before you invite your friends into your bedroom, think carefully what message your bedroom will give them about you.

|------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1. The color in your office  | 2. The color of your house    |
| 3. The pictures in your room | 4. The pictures of your house |
19. According to the passage, are people with pale walls selfish?
1. No, they usually smile and talk a lot.
  2. Yes, they like taking photos of themselves.
  3. No, they just don't like making new friends.
  4. Yes, they always think only about themselves.

For items 20-23Buy Nothing Day

Buy Nothing Day started in 1993 and is now an international event that takes place in more than 55 countries. It is a simple idea to challenge consumer culture and ask people to stop shopping for 24 hours.

Buy Nothing Day encourages people to think about what they buy and the possible effects the product may have on the environment and developing countries. For example, if you buy a new pair of trainers, do you know where they were made and if the people who made them are treated well by the company?

According to the organizers of Buy Nothing Day, shopping itself isn't harmful but what we buy can be. They claim that in the rich western countries 20% of the world population consume 80% of the earth's natural resources. They want consumers to think more about what they buy and to ask themselves some questions before buying anything new. Here are some of the questions to put on your check-list:

- ✓ Do I need it?
- ✓ How many do I already have?
- ✓ Will I use it a lot?
- ✓ Will it last a long time?
- ✓ Could I borrow it from a friend instead?
- ✓ Is it recyclable?

This year in the UK Buy Nothing Day is on Saturday November 27th. There will be some events in town centers to celebrate the event and to encourage shoppers to have a day off and buy absolutely nothing!
